Linear algebra moves steadily to  $n$  vectors in  $m$ -dimensional space. We still want combinations of the columns (in the column space). We still get  $m$  equations to produce  $b$  (one for each row). Those equations may or may not have a solution. They always have a least-squares solution. The interplay of columns and rows is the heart of linear algebra.

Unlike a harder and more notation-focused discrete math course I took, I came out of the linear algebra course that used this textbook feeling that I learned nothing interesting about how the world works, and nothing that I might use in any future intellectual pursuit.
